THE CORONER'S JURY INQUEST

Into the Killing of C. A. Cole, a Bridgeman on the M., K. & T.

Coroner Miller Saturday morning began an investigation to learn additional facts in connection with the killing of C. A. Cole, an M., K. & T. bridgeman, who died Friday at the company hospital from injuries sustained by being run over in the vicinity of Broadway and the railroad crossing Thursday evening.

Several witnesses were examined, but owing to the inability of the constable to locate Foreman Sharp, under whom Cole was employed, the inquest was adjourned, subject to the call of the coroner.

The following constituted the jury: C. E. Polan, John T. Collins, W. A. Collins, William Jolly, C. A. Harris and H. C. Leaming.

A telegram was received Saturday from Cole's relatives at Holly, N. Y. requesting that the body be shipped there for burial, and in accordance with instructions the remains will be sent east.

The entire inner portion of our bodies is covered with a soft, delicate lining called mucous membrane; this is kept in healthy condition by the nourishment and vital vigor it receives from the blood. So long as the circulation remains pure this membrane will be healthy, but when the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities and poisons this inner lining of the body becomes irritated and diseased, and the unpleasant and serious symptoms of Catarrh commence. There is a tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, often slight deafness, difficult breathing, etc. The disease cannot be reached by external treatment, though such measures afford temporary relief in some instances. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impurities and poisons. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed, irritated membranes heal, the discharge ceases, headaches are relieved and every symptom disappears. Catarrh, being a disease in which the entire blood circulation is affected, can only be cured by a remedy that goes to the very bottom and removes every particle of the impurity from the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA

POVERTY CHIEF CAUSE OF

B. Lindsey, Says Few Juvenile Criminals Are of Foreign Parentage.

(Exclusive Service Charities and The Commons Press Bureau.) BY JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY.

New York, July 11 .- A letter came to me the other day from a superintendent of schools in New England, asking the following questions:

In your opinion, to what extent is the public school system responsible for juvenile crimes?

To what extent are those crimes due to a lack of co-operation between the home and the school? To what extent is the increase of juvenile crime due to secularization of schools?

How far does immigration contribte to this unfortunate condition? His questions and my answers may be suggestive to others.

I cannot say that the public school system is in any particular responsitle for juvenile crime. The public school system represents education. and education has done more to reduce crime than almost any other

Of course I recognize that there are children for industrial efficiency through the more direct teaching of trades or the furnishing of some kind Broadway and Ohio. > I am convinced that poverty is th chief cause of crime in this country -that is, the crime that is generally punished by the courts, for the people who get into the courts are usually the poor and ignorant. It only occasionally happens that the crimes of ents who understand their responsithe intelligent cunning and wealthy are punished.

To hold the public school responsible for what it fails to do and might do to equip morally the future citizen would shoulder upon it the responsibility for any crime resulting from that failure. We can only urge upon the school the great importance of neglecting no opportunity to make as perfect a citizen as it is possible for it to make, within the reasonable scope of its purposes and functions. As to the second question, I would say, always, that the home is infinitely more responsible for juvenile

An ideal con- whether secularized or not. dition, in my judgment, would make the home almost entirely responsible for the moral character of the child: but since we are face to face with the fact that so many children are homeless, without parents at all, or what is equally as bad, without parbility and endeavor to live up to them, it follows that he school must be responsible, more or less, for the character of the child. But where the parent has utterly failed it is frequently difficult for any school to home or the parent in this respect is lack of co-operation with the school. As to the more direct cooperation, such as the interest of the parent in the school and the work of the child while in school there is undoubtedly much child crime due to the lack of it.

Habitual truancy is one of the have rather startled me by showing chief causes of crime in childhood, and this condition is frequenly due of foreign parentage. Perhaps more to a lack of effort on the part of the home and co-operation with the court; but my judgment is that this school. In fact, failure at home to stimulate the child in its school duties and in respect for the school and the authority in the school is responsible often for children who are backward in school, and I find that most school children who drift into crime are backward, which might of course have been avoided had the home done its part throughout the school period I find the home always more to blame than the school. There is a disposition upon the part of thousands of parents in every city to shirk duties because of the idea they seem to have that it should be all performed by the school. Such parents are certainly dangerous citizens.

As to the third question, it is not free from difficulty. I think that the education of a child, though secularized, must nevertheless involve a certain amount of moral training, for I feel certain that the great majority of American public school children are honest, law abiding and developing in heart as well as in head.

The marriage was a surprise one and has all the elements of an oldfashioned genuine romance. Mr. Mc Quiddy, the happy bridegroom formerly lived in Sedalia, being employed as a machinist at the Missouri Pacific shops prior to their being shut down last February. While here he met and fell in love with Miss Nicholson and paid devoted court to her.

When the shops closed Mr. Mc-Quiddy went to Omaha and entered the employment of the Union Pacific railroad in that city. The young people kept up a constant correspondence and about a month ago the young ka City.

When she left there was no intimation of a wedding and Mr. Nicholson his daughter, asking her if the rumor was true, and last night received the following:

"Yes, we are married; are sipreme ly happy. Have written full partic ulars .- J. H. McQuiddy."

Mrs. Nicholson, mother of the tride, doesn't know of the marriage yet, as she is in Detroit, where as one of the grand lodge committee she is engaged in the revision of the ritualistic work of the Lady Macca-

Mr. Nicholson said last night that while he was surprised at the suddenness of the affair, neither he nor his family had any objection to the young man, although they would have preferred that the wedding had taken place in Sedalia.

Both the bride and groom are very popular among their friends here, and will receive many hearty congratulations and good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. McQuiddy will return to Sedalia to reside as soon as the shops open for work again.

Danville, Ill., July 11.-After shad owing him for more than a month and opening his mail for the last three weeks, United States Secret Service Agents D. W. Wilkie and Thomas J. THE STAR'S ADVICE TO DEMO-CRATS.

For several days past the Kansas City Star has been showing a great deal of apparent solicitude concerning the candidacy of David A. Ball, of Pike county, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. It has had very many nice things to say of Mr. Ball, both in its news and editorial columns. To the casual observer, unacquainted with the ways and wiles of William R. Nelson, it would appear that the Star is an enthusiastic Fall organ, and that nothing would so please the "editor and owner" as the nomination and election of the perennial candidate from Bowling

The last statement is half true, and no more than half true. It would be pleasing to the Star if the democrats of Missouri should nominate Mr. Ball for governor. In fact, we know of nothing that could happen in the near future in Missouri politics that would tickle the Star so much as the nomination of Mr.

Nor would the pleasure be all Mr. Nelson's. One Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri and a re publican aspirant for the governor ship, would also hold a little private jollification in the event that the Star should be successful in its attempt to name the head of the demo cratic ticket in Missouri. There are also quite a number of republican politicians, hangers-on and place hunters who would gladly volunteer GREER-The Democrati-Sentinel is authorized

Ball, should he receive the democratic nomination, could and would be elected easily over Herbert S. Hadley, or any other man whom the republicans might name. # HORNE WAS NOT INSANE

WHEN COMMITTED TO THE ASY LUM AT ST. JOSEPH LAST MARCH.

THIS IS THE VIEW OF SUPT. KUHN

Denies That Horne Was Given All Manner of Liberties-Says He Was Treated Like Any Other Inmate.

Richard C. Horne, who shot and killed H. J. Groves, managing editor, and dangerously wounded O. D. Woodward, president of the Post, was discharged from the state insane asylum at St. Joseph a few days ago, says Friday's Kansas City Post.

Horne was tried in the latter part f last March for the murder of Groves, in the criminal court of lackson county, and after a trial last. ing a full week, a jury found that he was insane when he shot Groves and hat he was still insane.

Upon this verdict, Judge William H. Wallace, of the Jackson county criminal court, committed Horne to the state insane asylum at St. Jo seph. After remaining there barely three months. Horne has been given his freedom upon the recommendation of Dr. W. F. Kuhn, superintendent and other officials of the asyof the jury in the Horne case so far as to call it a 'joke.' But judging from the condition of Horne when he came here, while the verdict of the jury may not have been a 'joke,' it was certainly a miscarriage of justice."

In answer to the question whether the report was true that Horne, during his stay in the St. Joseph asyam, was given all manner of liberties, Dr. Kuhn said that Horne had not been allowed to enjoy his full literty during his stay at the asylum; that he had been given the lib erty of the grounds only, and that he had to cornform to the rules as did other patients. Dr. Kuhn said that to his knowledge Horne had only gone down town twice, and that he was accompanied each time by an at-

"Did Horne have an understand ing, as reported, with you or anyone under you to apear at the asylum asylum?" "There was no change made in Horne's confinement at the asylum. He was required to follow the rules from first to last. He ate at the same table with the other patients and had the same food."

"Was Horne sane or insane when committel to your care?"

"I regarded him as sane." "In such cases do you act upon your own judgment or do you base your treatment of the person on the theory that he was insane as declared by the jury?"

'We treat him according to our cwn judgment. Of course, we consider the verdict of the jury. But when we think it necessary we act Are readily cured by Zemo. A liquid Dr. C. S. Walden. on our own judgment without any for external use. Zemo gives instant regard for the verdict."

his release sooner?" "We make a practice of holding a person committed to this institution for two or three months in order to make certain that no mistake will be made in the discharge of such a person. The law was followed by me in every respect before Horne was released. I recommended to the board of managers at their meeting in June that Horne be released. A majority of the board must approve a recommendation for a discharge before it can be granted. The recommendation in Horne's case was laid over for about one month before it was passed upon. When it was acted upon the board granted it by unanimous consent. The recommendation was made not only by me, but also by the physicain who had Horne directly in

"Have you received a request for Horne's release from any official of the state or Jackson county?"

"I have not, Neiher did I expect iny such request."

"Do you know, dector, that there has been a report current since the rial of Horne, that he would remain in the asylum about three months and then be released. Was there any basis for the rumor or is it only a coincidence that it happened to come

"I know nething of any such ru mer. The officials of state hospital No. 2 are not in collusion with any lawyers, juries or doctors. Neither are they a cat's paw to bolster up or condemn any verdict found by jury in a criminal court."

At the trial of Horne, three eminent physicians, Dr. Samuel W. Ayers, Dr. S. Grover Burnett and Dr. J. M. Allen, who qualified as experts in mental diseases, testified that Horne was of unsound mind and that he was a hopeless paranoiac. Dr. Ayers said that he considered Horne a dangerous lunatic and unsafe to be at liberty among society. The able attorneys for Horne based their entire case and made their arguments o the jury on the theory that Horne was of unsound mind and that he was insane when he shot H. J. Groves and O. D. Woodward, and that he had been insane for a number of years prior to the shooting. The jury by its verdict shows that t took that view of the case.

During certain government experiments at Washington with reference to the effects of sudden pressures, attention was called to a singular exmerience, which sometimes happens to people who go shooting in winter. If stopped. the muzzie of a gun happens to become plugged with a little snow, the gun invariably bursts when fired in that cond ion. Light as the plug of sne is, it requires a definite time for a finite pressure, however great, to set it under way, and during this short time the tension of the powder gases becomes so great that the barrel of the ordinary fowling piece is unable to withstand it.

The Peak of Tenerife, as seen from the ocean or the other islands of the Canary group, may be described as the highest mountain for its height in the world. As regards mimicry the starling is our most accomplished mimic. He will sing so like the song thrush and blackbird that it is hard to tell the difference, and in autumn he gives a fine imitation of the curlew.

The blackbird, as a rule, is not a mimic, yet Yarrell relates that it has been heard to crow like the cock, and the writer of these notes had the pleasure of hearing it do so on one occasion. Sometimes the imitation is unconscious, as in the case of the jackass penguin, which, according to Darwin, makes a loud noise "very like the braying of an ass. Lendon Field.

Two or three dogs are nearly always to be found loafing about every blacksmith's shop. This fact is so well recognized that detectives, when sent out after valuable dogs that have been lost, invariably visit first of all the blacksmiths' shops in the neighborhood. The reason why the dogs frequent the blacksmiths' shops is that they love inordinately the odor and the taste of burning hoofs. persons whom it was desired to honor originated with the ancients. The people of oriental nationals used to kiss the hands and feet or hems of the clothes of the persons they wished to show respect for.

The ancient Egyptians got this custom from the Assyrians, and later the Greeks adopted the habit from the bookkeeper at Quinn Bros.' shoe store, Egyptians. The Romans followed the Greeks, and then Pontifex Maximus had his great toe kissed by celebrities

The story will be remembered of the old Briton ruler who appeared to do homage to a Roman monk after the conquest of Briton. He was told that it was customary to kiss the foot of the holy father. A Silver Lining.

Last summer I stayed overnight at a hotel in a town so small that the town marshal keeps the postoffice, department store, undertaking establishment, flour and feed and furniture emporium all under one roof, and that roof is only two stories high. I was sitting on the hotel porch waiting till the village hack met the ten o'clock train (then it could take me to the next town), when my landlady came running out on the porch in great excitement, waving a silver dime. 'What do you think, mister,' she said, fanning her red face with her apron: 'that chicken I'm goin' to fry for your lunch basket only cost me 11 cents. I paid 21 cents for it, and when I chopped its head off with the hatchet, this dime flew out of its craw.' How's that for the plot for a rural play?"-Exchange.

There is not to be a general resumption of business at the Missour Pacific shops tomorrow, despite the fact that a local newspaper a month said the grand opening would cccur on either July 6 or 13, and wanted its readers to "stick a pin on those dates.'

There is no change in the local situation. The business of the company does not yet warrant putting to work a full force of men in all of the departments, it is said, and it will likely be some time in August before an order is given to put all of the old men back to work, together with many more men.

Many of the former employes have secured situations elsewhere since the shops closed on February 20, and will rot return here.
